

Powhatan Energy Fund Announcement

January 10, 2014

Dr. Shaun Ledgerwood's opinions on this litigation will be added to this site in the near future. Dr. Ledgerwood, an expert who works through the Brattle Group, specializes in market competitiveness with an emphasis on the economic analysis of market manipulation claims in financial and commodities markets.

As a former economist and attorney for the Office of Enforcement for the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, he evaluated manipulative behavior within and across wholesale electricity and natural gas markets. During his tenure, he assisted in the enforcement proceedings involving Energy Transfer Partners, L.P. and Amaranth Advisors, LLC, Constellation Energy Commodities Group and several other manipulation-related investigations.

Dr. Ledgerwood holds a Ph.D., M.A., and B.A. in Economics from the University of Oklahoma and a J.D. from the University of Texas (Austin).

Powhatan is actively considering additional experts to provide content to this site. The layout of the site and videos will be amended once several incremental experts are engaged.
